

Hello...

I cannot believe that this year in St Aldhelm has come to an end, it has been a very strange year and before lockdown we were having such an amazing time, I enjoyed being your teacher so very much. During lockdown you have all been absolutely amazing, I have been amazed at how strong and resilient you have all been and I have been very lucky to have all of you in my class at this time. This is of course not goodbye; I will see you all in September and probably cry and faint at how tall you will all be! We all have new and exciting journeys ahead of us, but I am sure we will always be there to help each other out along the way!

So, for the next two days there are some fun summer booklets for you to have a look at and choose what you would like to do. As always have fun and remember “the truth is a lemon meringue!”

Miss Just

Your Flat Teacher

My favourite thing about watching you grow is hearing your stories and the facts that you know.

But now, for a while, we have been far apart. Regardless of distance, you're still in my heart.

I think of you daily and miss you a lot. So, I've made you a 'me' that's a tiny mascot!

Look at your flat teacher – a miniature me! I'll join you in the summer holidays and see what you see.

I'll join you on journeys wherever you roam and spend some time with you when you're safe at home.

You'll bring me on summer adventures, or when we meet online and we'll be together again when things are just fine.
