

Easter Inspiration

A time for renewal and new horizons.

*In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth!
Genesis 1:1*

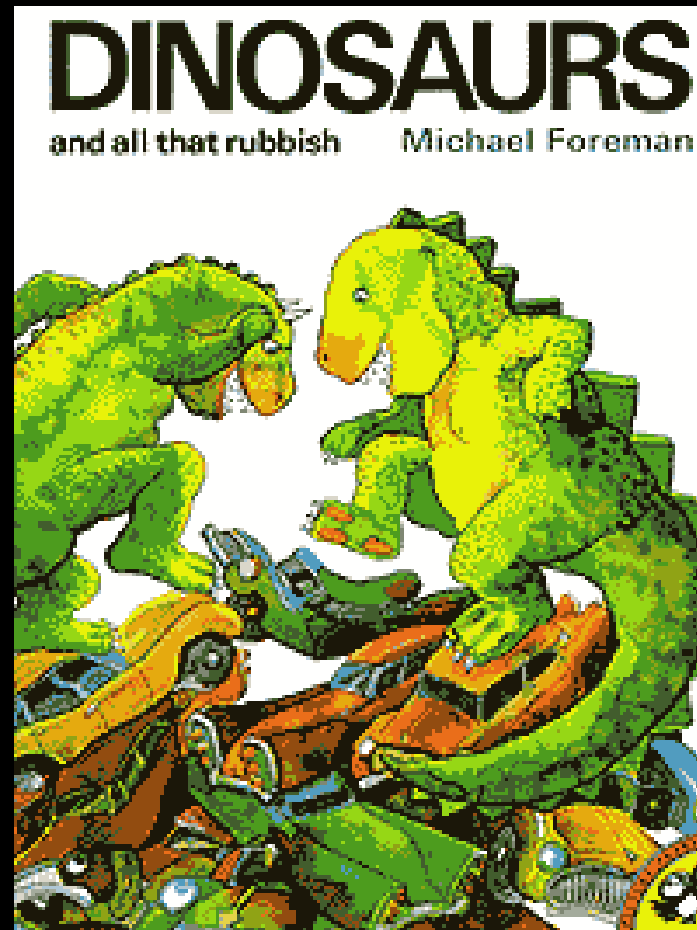

As the Apollo 8 mission orbited the moon, astronaut William Anders felt a jolt of awe when he saw the Earth rising illuminated over the barren lunar landscape. He grabbed his camera, careful to use his colour film, and captured Earthrise.

a photo that revealed our planet as a small, fragile sphere adrift in the vastness of space. It served as a powerful reminder of our planet's vulnerability and sparked a newfound sense of responsibility to protect it.

A story with a message about respecting God's creation.

Was man right to make such a mess and then just leave it?

Our Power,
Our Planet

Developing a “Big Idea” about respecting creation

A photograph of Earth from space, showing a large hurricane over the Atlantic Ocean and the Americas. The Earth's curvature is visible on the left, and the dark, starry background of space is on the right. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image.

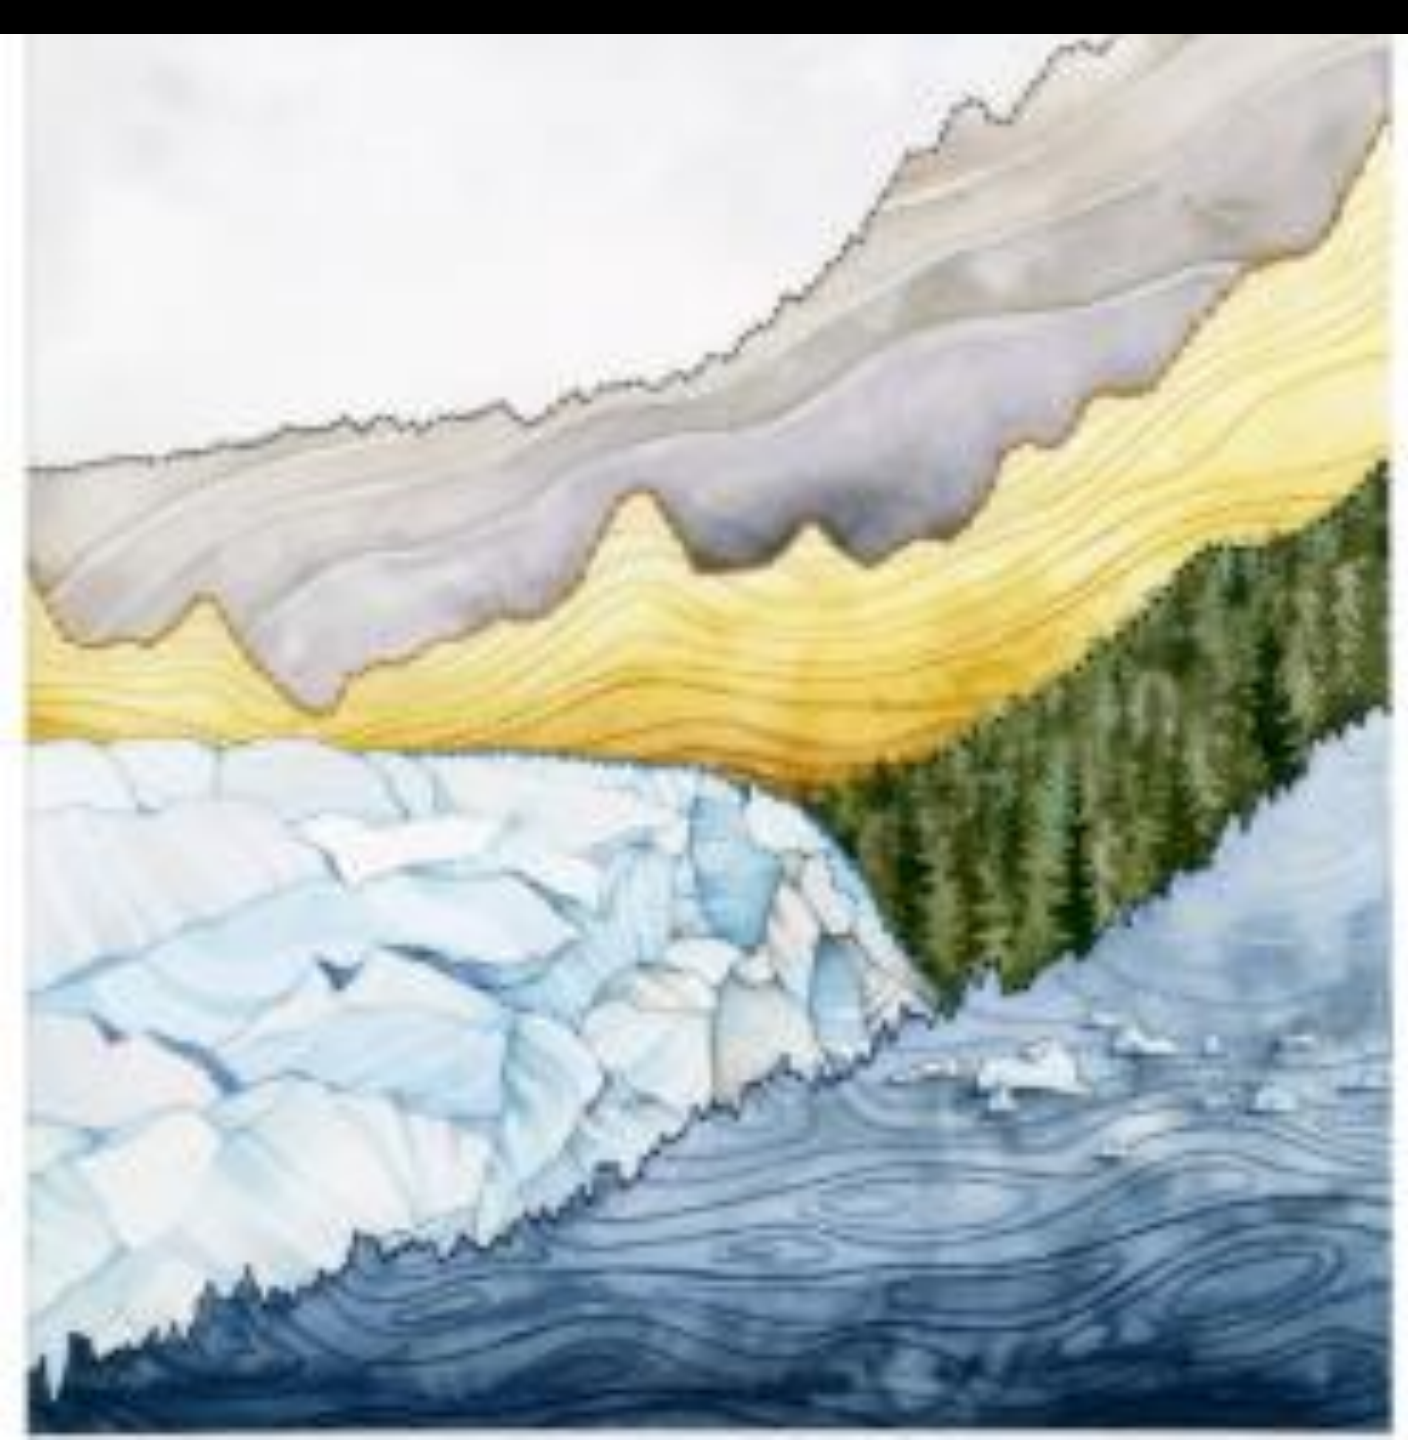

Art has the power to change the way we see ourselves and our place in the world. It can ignite movements, shift perspectives, and remind us of our shared humanity. In 1968, one photograph taken from space did just that.

Artist Olafur Eliasson and geologist Minik Rosing used shock tactics to get their message across and created a large-scale public installation called 'Ice Watch' where they carefully arranged 24 blocks of glacial ice from Greenland's melting glaciers in front of the Tate Modern, an art gallery in London.

Artist Anna Chan uses materials found on the seashore to raise awareness of the need to protect our planet.

'One Last Chance' depicts rising sea levels and urges immediate action towards climate protection.

Your challenge is to create a piece of art using natural or recycled materials to highlight the need to protect our planet. We will then photograph each piece and hold an exhibition.

Think deeply,
Speak gently,
Love much,
Work hard,
Give freely,
Think earnestly,
Be kind.
